3. U.S. Policy in Southeast Asia Criticized. In his column in al-Madina Abd al-'Aziz MU'MINAH ascribed what he calls the failure of U.S. policy in Southeast Asia to (1) lack of U.S. consideration for the motives leading the peoples of Southeast Asia to adopt an independent policy that insures self-determination; (2) U.S. ignorance of the ancient and modern history of these people; (3) U.S. refusal to recognize the deep-rooted civilization of these peoples; and (4) mistakes by U.S. politicians who imagine that Indochina, with its own culture and proud of its traditions, had willingly submitted to French influence. In a second column on the same subject, Mu'minah described the main problem of Southeast Asia as "underdevelopment" and emphasized that this cannot be solved by military action but only within the framework of peace. He concludes: "The main fault in America's policy is that it depends on its military strength and not on ideology and thought." (UNCLASSIFIED)

5. USIS Film Shows at Medina Fair. USIS Jidda responded to a personal request from the Minister of Agriculture to show films at an agricultural fair being staged in Medina this week by the Ministry. The Minister extended his original request for three days' film showings to five days in order to cope with the thousands of persons who attended the film showings. (UNCLASSIFIED)
